BELIEVING TOO LITTLE

HENRY FORD told me that when he was building his factory his father was greatly worried.

Every few days the old gentleman shook his head and said:

"You are too late, Henry. Before you can begin to produce automobiles, everyone in the United States, who can afford a car, will have one."

This sounds much funnier today than it sounded 20 years ago, when it was freely predicted that the automobile would be a short-lived fad like the bicycle.

Many of our "most conservative business men" shared that view. You probably have never heard the names of these "most conservative business men," though they lived carefully and left comfortable estates. But you have heard of Ford, the dreamer, who was foolish enough to believe that the American people have an almost unlimited capacity for buying automobiles.

We live in what is called a materialistic age; every one is submitted to scientific tests; nothing can go forward until it has surmounted all the barriers that skepticism can erect. And there is much wisdom in this.

But skepticism alone never built a great fortune. Nobody, looking merely at the figures, would ever have had the courage to stretch a line of rails across our Western deserts. No great scientific discovery was ever achieved unless imagination was permitted to soar far above and beyond the things that can be seen and weighed.

"He that does not go beyond the facts," said Huxley, "will seldom get as far as the facts."

J. P. Morgan, when he died, left several million dollars in worthless stocks. These represented his adventures in faith, the penalties charged against him for believing too much.

But he left many more millions in sound securities—the reward of a faith which was right far more often than it was wrong.

The great practical joker of the last generation was P. T. Barnum. He played upon the credulity of more people than any other man of modern times. Therefore, when he talks about how much it is safe to believe, he is an authority whose word is worth consideration. He said:

"If the fact could be definitely determined, I think it would be discovered that in this 'wide-awake' country there are more persons humbugged by believing too little than by believing too much."

Of course, the ideal middle ground is to believe just enough; but few of us can attain that state of perfection. Therefore, since we must err on one side or the other, I prefer to be one of those who is fooled occasionally by believing too much. It is much pleasanter.

And, as is proved by Henry Ford, Mr. Morgan and many others, it is generally much more profitable.

NEW ELECTIONS TO STAFF OF WEEKLY

Resignations and Additions to Editorial Group Necessitates Readjustment of Personnel

At a meeting of the staff of "The New Hampshire" on Sunday evening, November 5, in Room 110, Thompson Hall, several resignations of staff members were read and elections were made to fill the consequent vacancies, with the exception of that of Managing Editor which is to be filled by competition and the appointment made at a later date.

The staff personnel is now as follows: Editor-in-Chief, Arthur N. Lawrence, '23, of North Yarmouth, Me.; copy editor, Wesley B. Shand of Manchester; news editor, Kyle B. Fleming, '25, of Ashland; society editor, Elma I. Perkins, '23, of Center Barnstead; athletic editor, Wilford A. Dion, '23, of Tilton; alumni editor, Ethel S. Cowles, '25, of Claremont; reporters, Marjory Ames, '23, of Somersworth; Mildred M. Bangs, '23, of Manchester; John S. Carr, '23, of Milford, Massachusetts; Karl B. Dearborn, '23, of Belmont; Curtis P. Donnell, '24, of Hampton; Alice A. Kelsey, '24, of Meriden; Ruth E. Pinnree, '24, of New London; Sarah C. Richards, '24, of South Lyndeboro; Olive M. Rogers, '24, of Manchester.

Professor Harold H. Scudder is faculty adviser for the staff. The business department is composed of Leon C. Glover, '23, of Hollis, business manager; Russell S. Spaulding, '23, of Walpole, assistant business manager; Samuel E. Heller, '24, of Claremont; advertising manager, Edward A. Shea, '25, of Nashua; assistant advertising manager; and Roger E. STUDENTS GIVE TO FRIENDSHIP FUND

Affiliated Christian Associations Pleaded with Results—Money Will Do Much Towards Helping Students in Asia

On Monday, October 16th, Miss Fjeril Hess, of the National Y. W. C. A. and Mr. Perley A. Foster, '13, of the State Y. M. C. A. visited the campus. They presented to a group of about 20 men and women, the cause of The Student Friendship Fund. The group was representative of the various dormitories and fraternities. It was decided that the students of New Hampshire college should at least be given the chance to do something to help their classmates in Asia Minor, Central Europe and Russia. It was felt that we would gladly help our room-mate if in need of food, books or clothing and it only took a bit of imagination to picture the needy students of Europe as our actually room-mates.

A canvass was made of the various dormitories and fraternities; men and women giving as they felt inclined. There was no great publicity about the matter and the entire piece of service was accomplished in a very quiet manner. The sum of $136.57 was sent to the Friendship Fund headquarters at 347 Madison avenue, New York City and upon the payment of several pledges still outstanding an additional sum will be forwarded.

Only students contributed towards this project, faculty and other residents of Durham were not approached. Some groups brought in returns of 100 per cent. and many quickly sensed the actual need. This speaks well for the spirit of N. H. C.

Within a month or so it is hoped that we will receive data as to just how the relief work is progressing, and this material will be given as wide publicity as possible so that those who gave may know how their gifts were put to work. This much at least is known that $1.50 will feed one of the needy students for an entire month. Therefore almost 100 European students are getting maintenance rations for that period—fellow students who otherwise would have had to give up or even starve.

COLLEGE OFFERS MAILCOURSES

Fifteen reading courses in agriculture and home economics are offered free to all residents of the state this winter by the New Hampshire College Extension service. Each course is based upon a single textbook chosen because it is easy to read and yet practicable, and supplemented by federal and state bulletins. Wherever a number of persons are interested in the same course, group study classes may be formed with the assistance of county extension agents. The courses offered this season are as follows: Soils and Fertilizers; Farm Crops; Farm Stock; Orchard Management; Dairy Farming; Poultry Husbandry; Swine Husbandry; The Farm Woodlot; Vegetable Gardening; Bee-Keeping; Small Fruits; Farm Management; Feeding the Family; Clothing the Family, and Household Management.

—To Manchester, Saturday the 11th—

The editors of "The New Hampshire" extend a cordial invitation to all students interested in publicity work to try out for positions on the staff. Those wishing to do this will please get in touch with Wesley B. Shand, '24, Sigma Beta House or with Miss Elma Perkins, '23, Congreve Hall.

ALPHA ZETA'S CELEBRATE 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Gather at Community Church Vestry on Nov. 4

Dean Taylor Presides

Twenty-five Alumni, Active and Associate Members Present—Classes from '02 to '24 Represented

On the evening of Home-coming night there was celebrated on this campus, as was on others where chapters of the society are to be found, the 25th anniversary of the founding of the fraternity of Alpha Zeta. Here the observance of the event assumed the form of an informal dinner enjoyed at the vestry of the Community church. Twenty-five of the active and associate members of Granite Chapter attended, or one for each year that the society has been in existence.

Dean F. W. Taylor of the agricultural department of the college was toast-master and he performed this duty, as he always does, in a most efficient manner. The Dean, by the way, was a student at Ohio when the original chapter of Alpha Zeta was formed.

Among those on whom he called to respond to toasts were Professor John C. McNutt, "mentor" of the department of animal husbandry; Howard A. Rollins, '23, active head of Granite Chapter at the present time; Director John C. Kendall, '02, of the Extension Service; Professor Henry R. Kraybill, of the realm of agricultural chemistry; Ralph B. Emery, '20; H. T. Woodward, '21; Oliver J. Hubbard, '21; and Donald B. Mattoon, '22. The speeches of all of these men were full of inspiration to the younger members and served to raise to an even higher level their interest and loyalty to their chapter.

Among those present at this dinner were, Dean F. W. Taylor, Professor John C. McNutt, Professor Henry R. Kraybill, Professor M. Gale Eastman, '13, Director John C. Kendall, '02, Professor Richard Lowry, Mr. Ralph DeH. Fisher, Ralph B. Emery, '20, H. T. Woodward, '21, O. J. Hubbard, '21, Donald B. Mattoon, '22, O. Kilton Andrew, '23, Harry J. Bennett, '23, Earle P. Farmer, '23, Alfred H. French, '23, Leon C. Glover, '23, Leroy J. Higgins, '23, Arthur N. Lawrence, '23, George E. Middlemas, '23, Samuel J. Patrick, '23, Oscar J. Pearson, '23, Roy Pulsifer, '23, Herman Rodenheiser, '23, Howard A. Rollins, '23, Wayne Parkhurst, '24, and Richard O. Stevens, '24.

Teacher (to dull pupil)—"You ought to be ashamed; at your age George Washington was a surveyor."

"At your age, he was president of the United States."

Mr. Stone and Mr. Wood were standing on a corner. A "fair young thing" passed. Stone turned to Wood. Wood turned to Stone and then they both turned to rubber.

Doctor, after examining Pat, who had been run over by an auto; "Madam, I fear your husband is dead."

Pat (feebly)—"No, I ain't dead yet."

Mrs. Pat (in sobs)—"Hush, Pat, the gentleman knows better than you."

Pupil—"Was writing done on stone tablets in the old days?"

Teacher—"Yes."

Pupil—"Then it must of taken a crowbar to break the news."

Teacher—"Jimmy, where's the Swannee River?"

After puzzling a few minutes the pupil answers: "Far, far away."

Teacher—"What carries electricity?"

Pupil—"Why 'er—"

Teacher—"Correct."

First Flea (on Post Toasties box)—"What's your hurry?"

Second Flea—"Don't you see that sign, 'Tear along this edge?'"

A guide, showing an old lady over the zoo, took her to a cage occupied by a kangaroo.

"Here, madam," he said, "we have a native of Australia."

The visitor started at it in horror.

"Good heavens!" she declared. "And to think my sister married one of them things."

"What's a periodic sentence?"

"One with a period after it."

THE USE OF TIME

McCready Sykes of "Commerce and Finance" has made an interesting analysis of how the average business man uses his time.

We will condense the figures as much as possible.

First of all, we will cut out Sundays and Saturday afternoons. This leaves 287 full working days. Then we will drop nine holidays, leaving 278 days. The two weeks' vacation eliminates eleven more days, bringing us down to 267.

The eight-hour day gives us a total of 2,136 working hours out of the 8,760 hours which the full year provides.

An eight-hour sleeping schedule accounts for 2,920 hours, leaving 3,704 hours for "miscellaneous purposes."

Summarizing, according to Mr. Sykes, we have:

Working	2,136 hours, or 24%
Sleeping	2,920 hours, or 34%
All other purposes	3,704 hours, or 42%

8,760 100%

This indicates that we get our living by working one-fourth of the time. And bear in mind, too, that this analysis does not take into account "time off" for sickness, golf and "funny stories."

Furthermore, for each person employed, about two are not employed, so that we are faced with the disturbing fact that we are fed, clothed, sheltered, amused and instructed with an average outlay of only one-fourth of the time of one-third of the population.

Of course, I know that the brain of our modern successful man is working every hour of the day! That (if true) is a reason for hope, for it is during so-called hours of leisure that the best thinking is done.

Too many are using their leisure in activities that do not mean anything: joy-riding, jazz and dancing.

This is true: That civilization is usually measured in terms of leisure. There was no civilization until men located in the valley of the Nile river. Ancient man had to work sixteen hours a day to scrape together enough food to keep him alive. He had no time to think of grand plans for human advancement.

But the Nile overflowed its banks with such thoughtful regularity that it did the work of a million men, irrigating and fertilizing vast stretches of land in which bounteous crops could be grown.

Thus, for the first time in the history of the human race, men had leisure and this leisure was used to think out problems and to build a civilization which is still the admiration of the world.

Greece was the next center of culture, and here again the marvelous accomplishments of this great people were possible only because they had ample leisure which they used to improve themselves and their fellowmen.

At my home we have a dog, and, as dogs go, he is a prince. Whenever he has nothing else to do he lies down and goes to sleep. In this respect he reminds me of some people, who use their leisure to sleep or to carouse. They are little better than dogs and will never amount to much more than dogs.

NEWSY ITEMS OF THE ALUMNI

ASSOCIATION OFFICERS
ALBERT H. BROWN, '11, President
 Strafford, N. H. Phone, Barrington, 15-13
PAUL D. BUCKMINSTER, '12, Vice-President
 24 Buckham St., Everett, Mass.
 Phone, Home: Everett 2594R
 Business: Everett 1420
GEORGE A. PERLEY, '08, Secretary-Treasurer
 Durham, N. H. Phone, 52-5

Some very happy surprises have come into the Alumni Office in the form of returns from meetings on All New Hampshire Alumni Night. Witness the following:

AT CLAREMONT—A very enjoyable meeting of Alumni was held at Claremont, N. H., on October 27th and a hustling branch has been formed. This branch is to be known as the Connecticut Valley Branch. The following officers were elected: Florence A. Kelley, '20, President; Elsie L. King, '19, Secretary-Treasurer. A program committee consisting of Rachel Bugbee, '21, Shirley Pollard, '21, and Donald Mattoon, '22, were instructed to arrange for the meeting of November 24th. This branch plans to include Alumni of Springfield and Windsor, Vt., Walpole and Lebanon, N. H. The charter members of this branch are: Bessie Scott Brown, '11; Gardner Hazen, 2-yr. '15; John Baker, '18; Elsie L. King, '19; Florence A. Kelley, '20; Rachel Bugbee, '21; Shirley Pollard, '21; Donald Mattoon, '22. A real live organization is in evidence by the following telegram which came to us on the eve of the Home-Coming Day and which was read at the Rally: "The Connecticut Valley Branch Alumni send greetings to New Hampshire college students and visiting Alumni. May victory be ours tomorrow. Though not with you we are rooting loyally for the team and our Alma Mater." Signed Elsie L. King, Sec'y-Treas.

We believe every word of that part of their letter which states: "The names of twelve other alumni were added to our list Friday night,—for we discovered that every additional person knows another—and so we are hoping to have at least twenty at our next meeting. If everything goes as well as we expect, you will hear often of our Branch, for we are hoping to be a help to both the college and the communities in which we live."

Our Alumni Office in Durham congratulates this group upon their co-operative spirit.

AT SCHENECTADY—The following report from the publicity secretary of the Eastern New York Alumni Branch, O. W. Pike, '20, came to us with a letter stating that each week he would see that some news item came to our "New Hampshire" from that Branch. "The alumni secretary at Durham sent a circular letter to the alumni the other day concerning things in general and especially about plans for an 'All Alumni' rally. One of these letters landed in Schenectady, and it sure was rushed from one New Hampshire Grad to the next one, until all were equally enthusiastic and all were marking their calendars with a big red X on Friday, October 27."

"Just what happened was that while the boys at Durham were tuning up their horns for the Massachusetts Aggie rally the Schenectady bunch were getting fed up so that they could come out strong on the cheers and while the Durham rally was in progress the Electric City gang were out at President Priest's house singing the old New Hampshire songs and wakening the neighbors with the New Hampshire cheers. They listened to accounts of the West Point game and games of former years. Every member stood up and gave his reasons why he was proud of New Hampshire and proud of the fact that he came from the type of democratic institution of which New Hampshire college is a fine example. Every member pledged his support to New Hampshire college and all went home resolved to stand ready for the next move to help his Alma Mater."

AT HARTFORD—Arthur Davis '12, Secretary of the Connecticut Branch, has sent us a report of their Connecticut Branch Meeting which is as follows: "You may be interested to know that the Connecticut Branch met at Hartford last Friday night as planned, twenty-two alumni and 'better halves' being present. We were pleased at the attendance and every one present is in favor of meeting at least three times a year."

E. M. Stone, '92, spoke as a representative of the first class which received diplomas at Durham (even if their four years had been spent at Hanover.)

W. E. Britton, '93, (our Connecticut State Entomologist), spoke as a representative of the first class which ever spent a year and graduated at Durham. He is still an enthusiastic N. H. C. man and always ready to help in the work of this branch. He was the editor of the first N. H. college paper ever published and has been a regular subscriber ever since.

Others who spoke were A. R. Merrill, '04, Miss V. C. Hardy, '17, H. S. Brown, '16, Wm. H. Slate, ex-instructor, and J. A. Manter, '12.

The 1912 class was represented by Manter, T. C. Bailey, P. M. Phillips and myself and there are two more 1912 prospects in this district so we intend to hang together.

It was suggested that we hold our next meeting when N. H. college students from Connecticut are at home for their winter vacation so that we may make their acquaintance.

The officers elected were as follows: President, E. M. Stone, '92, 327 Trumbull St., Hartford, Conn.; Vice-President, H. S. Brown, '16, 23 Columbia St., Hartford, Conn.; Secretary, A. G. Davis, '21, Farm Bureau, Litchfield.

The slides gave us an intimate view of 'home' and were much appreciated. Many thanks.

If 'Scotty,' 'Dick' and 'Pa Pratt' could know how good they looked to us older grads it would do them good. Dear old 'Dick,' he will never be forgotten.

Yours for New Hampshire college, Arthur Davis, '11."

AT NEW YORK CITY—E. F. Cutts, '17, of the New York Branch sent us the following notice: Organized on short notice the New York Branch got together eight strong at Stewart's Restaurant on Park Place for their first New Hampshire College Alumni Night in concert with the branches in other towns for a united recognition of the hold of their Alma Mater upon their hearts. Those present were L. H. Bunker, '12, R. I. McCartney, '16, E. C. McDuffee, '16, W. A. Dudley, '17, E. W. Hewitt, '21, T. J. Craig, '22, W. S. Meade, '22, and N. C. Dame, '22. Small in numbers but strong in spirit.

As a preamble to the scheduled dinner, an impromptu chess match was staged by four of the party, arousing such enthusiasm that a series of matches is being planned for later meetings.

Following the meeting a bowling match was the demand and a vigorous search for bowling alleys landed the party in Brooklyn where even the startling scores of the previous bowling contest were surpassed. However, for fear of exciting the jealousy of other branches, it was agreed that no scores should be divulged and the party broke up at 11 p. m.

AT THE WEST POINT GAME—A delegation of twelve members of the New York Branch were present at the West Point Game and rooting strong for Alma Mater. They included Dunc Kennedy, Knibe Fuller, Pi Holden, Bob Beach, H. C. Atkins, F. I. Ordway, W. A. Dudley, W. S. Meader, N. C. Dame, N. A. Warner, A. S. Bureleigh and T. J. Craig.

AT AMHERST—The following report of the meeting of the New Hampshire College Club of Western Massachusetts was sent in:

It was planned to have a meeting of the club Friday night, October 27, as a part of the general New Hampshire Alumni Night celebration, but so many were coming to Amherst to the New Hampshire-Mass. Aggie game the next day that it seemed best to put the meeting over until Saturday. Accordingly, fourteen loyal New Hampshire folks sat down to dinner at the Amherst Tavern, October 28 at one p. m.

Secretary Perley was present and showed us many interesting pictures of college activities. He made a strong plea for better alumni support and made it clear that a successful alumni association could not be a one man proposition.

It was pointed out that our territory was too large and suggestion was made that a branch be established in Pittsfield and one in Fitchburg. Secretaries Perley and Judkins are to assist in the formation of these branches.

After lunch the crowd hopped into autos and went to the game on Alumni field. The game was a corker and while we didn't win, Mass. Aggie was forced to go the limit.

After the game Professor Ford, '98, invited the group to his house to warm and refresh themselves before starting for home. Those present were: Professor and Mrs. C. J. Fawcette, M. A. C.; Professor and Mrs.

J. A. Foord, '98; Professor and Mrs. T. G. Yaxis, '14; Professor and Mrs. H. F. Judkins, '11; Professor and Mrs. J. M. Fuller, Durham; Professor and Mrs. Heber DePew, Durham; Miss Churchill, Durham; Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Morrison, (sp.); Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Muzzey, (sp.); Mrs. Fred W. Morse, M. A. C.; Mildred Gilmore, '22; Mr. E. J. Norman, Jr., 2-yr. '16; Mr. W. H. Thompson, '21; Mr. E. H. Forristall, '97; Mr. H. A. Holbrook, 2-yr. '17; Mr. M. W. Jaquith, 2-yr. '14; Mr. R. W. Ryerson, 2-yr. '21.

Not mentioned in the above are H. F. Peavey, '13, and E. R. Frizzell, 2-yr. '11, who were present at the dinner and took in the game. Several alumni from other parts, and a good crowd of N. H. students were also at the game.

The next meeting of the club will probably be the annual meeting held soon after the first of the year.

(Signed)

H. F. JUDKINS,
Sec'y-Treas.

DR. A. K. FOSTER VISITS CAMPUS

Weekly Convocation

HAS NATIONAL REPUTE

Is Student Secretary of Board of Northern Baptists—Gives Excellent Talk on Religion—Compares
It to Science

The speaker at Convocation last Wednesday was Dr. Allyn K. Foster, Student Secretary of the Board of Northern Baptists. He was introduced by President R. D. Hetzel, who presided over Convocation. Before Dr. Foster gave his address, President Hetzel presented the inter-fraternity scholarship cup to the Sigma Beta fraternity as the reward for having the highest scholastic standing last year among the fraternities.

Professor F. A. Pottle then announced that plans were under way for several inter-collegiate debates this year and that there would be one with the Connecticut Agricultural college some time just before the Christmas vacation and one with the North Dakota Agricultural college just after the Christmas vacation.

Following a selection by the college orchestra, President Hetzel introduced Dr. Foster. The doctor spoke on "The scientific interpretation of Religion." He said in part:

"The accurate recording of the results of a force acting on any matter is the true beginning of a science. Religion begins in the same way. Here, there is some force acting upon a human being, just as in physics where a force acts upon a body we call matter. In religion we have the results before we begin to theorize about them. An example of the results of religion is the Bible.

"Religion, like science, begins and ends in reality. Traditions in religion and in science are precisely parallel. In religion there are the facts that gather around the life and works of Jesus as recorded in the New Testament.

"There are three words which lie at the basis of both science and religion. They are: (1) Mystery, (2) Theory, (3) Fact. The nature and essence of the natural forces, such as electricity and gravity, forever remains a mystery. We do not know what electricity or gravity are in themselves, but yet they have definite reactions which everybody can realize. Every machine is driven by a power which is essentially mysterious, although acting in a regular way. The forces acting behind religious phenomena are equally mysterious, but the results they achieve are as definite and as regular as those of science.

Defines Theory

"Theory is the result obtained by the action of the imaginative intellect; it enables the scientist, not only to see the facts but also to see into them. It first arranges the facts and then guesses where new truth lies. Theory, therefore, is an essential necessity in the advance of all knowledge. In religion, theology is the result of this same imaginative intellect in arranging the facts of religion, and in attempting to account for them. The distinction between religion and theology ought to be carefully brought out. Religion is the realm of the play of spiritual forces. The Bible, the church and Christian thinking are some of the expressions of the play of these forces. Theology is the attempt of the human mind to evaluate these facts. It is the best thinking of which religious men have been capable. It is, therefore, human, whereas the religious forces are Divine.

"In science we always pursue the inductive method; from the fact to the conclusion. In religion, fact originally preceded the theory and for some centuries, the theory has been taught to succeeding generations. Religion, therefore, in an age of science, appears as a system of thought rather completely worked out, and its approach is at first deductive. The so called 'conflict' between science and religion in our day is really the conflict between ancient theories of religion and new theories of science, that is, between two types of human thinking. There is, in reality, and can be no conflict between the forces of religion and the forces of science.

Intellectual Problem

"It is the intellectual problem of every student in these days to adjust the old realities of religion to the new realities of science. New facts often have the effect of disturbing the life-long conclusions of religion. The college student has every assurance these days from the highest sources that the religious realities are assured. God is an indispensable necessity to an ordered universe. Jesus Christ in His teaching an spirit is more than ever available for the individual life and for the life of society. Disciple-ship for Him still yields the finest fruit that human nature can know."

GIRLS' ATHLETICS TAKE BIG STEP FORWARD

Each Girl Will Receive Type of Recreation Most Beneficial to Her—
Varsity Hockey Is Whipping Into Shape for Long List of Hard
Games

Athletics for women at New Hampshire college are taking a decided step forward this fall. Under the efficient direction of Mrs. Allen D. Wassell the work is being divided up into such a way as to give every girl an opportunity to specialize in some line beneficial to her.

The group of girls composing the varsity and the various class field hockey teams commands the most attention as that sport is a major one among woman's athletics. New Hampshire has taken her first step toward a place in the hockey world by joining the United States Field Hockey Association which was formed last January; some three months after the All-England woman's hockey team visited America. The varsity team has had regular practice ever since college opened in the fall, and it is hoped that during this month games can be arranged for with Keene Normal School, Colby Academy, Jackson College, and Tilton Seminary. On November 13, the girls are to have the opportunity of having an English coach here under the auspices of the U. S. F. H. A. This should, and will be of great benefit to them in their training.

The various class teams are showing a great deal of enthusiasm. "Freshman class hockey is the best yet. There is better material and more good spirit than in any previous entering class," says Mrs. Wassell. This means good material for varsity next year. Two of the interclass games were played last week. The seniors played the freshmen, coming out with a score of 1 to 0 in favor of the seniors, while the juniors scored 4 to 1 in a game against the sophomores. The rest of the interclass games will be played this week. Miss Flanders is conducting another group of girls who compose second teams in soccer.

A third class of girls led by Ruth Kemp, '23, and Elsie Stevens, '24, is organizing teams in Arrow Golf under the direction of Prof. C. F. Jackson. This activity is a new one and promises to be liked by the girls. It was originated here in Durham by the Country Club and is fast becoming popular all over America.

The out-of-door athletic season, which will last as long as the weather permits, will, we are sure, be followed by an equally well planned indoor program consisting of basket ball, volley ball, dancing and calisthenics.

Twelve Candidates Working for Team
—Plans Well Under Way to Meet
Connecticut Aggies and North Dakota

On last Thursday and Friday afternoon, Professor Frederick A. Pottle conducted a meeting in his office for candidates for the debating teams. At present there are 12 people working out for the teams. The training is to be carried out in an entirely different manner from the way that it was last year. The object that Mr. Pottle has in view is to give everyone who wants a chance to get into one or more intercollegiate debates. Already arrangements are being made to have a debate with the Connecticut Agricultural college and another with the North Dakota Agricultural college. The debate with Connecticut will be held just before the Christmas vacation, that with North Dakota just after Christmas vacation. Although the questions to be debated have not been definitely decided upon, it is thought that the one for the debate with Connecticut will be on the Towner-Sterling Educational bill.

The candidates have been divided into two groups, one of which will work on the material for the Connecticut debate, while the other will work on the material for the North Dakota debate. There will be no formal try-outs this year, as everyone will have a chance to debate. The choice of teams will not be announced until two weeks before each debate.
